3. There was a fall in the 3rd week of December, which is explained as due to some marriages, and at the end of December, which was due to something like a strike, when the work spot was shifted to an inconvenient place. I found the task was being properly exacted and that most of the workers were performing the full task. I think it may be considered to be proved that distress is existing in the area, which justifies the conversion of this work into a relief work, especially in the area around Yemmiganur. I recommend, therefore, that the Kurugodu-Yemmiganur road test work should be converted into a relief work and request the Board to approve this.

In the last C.I. statement circulated to-day figures were given showing that five relief works + three test works were in operation. It was intended by the Govt. to convert one test work into a relief work + to open another test work - making 9 in all as against the 11 sanctioned. The attention of the C. has been drawn to the fact that the two not yet opened all the sanctioned works
